

How to register and access all areas

Written by Debbie

Wednesday, 29 August 2012 14:21 -

Once you register you will be able to post on the forum, make comments on our blog and have access to the Free Feng Shui Tips and any new content we post in the future available for registered users only.

Just click on this link ,which will take you to the registration page, then enter your details. We keep them safe and never share them. Once you have done that we will send you an e-mail confirming your registration. You'll need to click on the link in the e-mail in order to activate your account.

After that whenever you want to post on the website, just log-in to the area you want to access with your username and password. i.e on the forum if you want to post there. If you want to comment on the blog just Click "readmore" in the blog article you want to comment on and the comment box will appear. Or if it's articles especially for registered users you want, just log in on the home page. You can use the same username and password for everything.

If you are having difficulties just log out and log in again.

Good Luck and I'm looking forward to hearing from you. I personally read all the comments and forum posts as I love hearing from you all.

Debbie